Team to Pass Upon Question Of Retention

Half-Owner of Club Will Neither Deny nor Confirm Rumor of Change

By W. J. Macbeth

According to a story which appears to be founded on more than idle gossip, Miller Huggins may be deposed as manager of the Yankees before the club leaves on its last Western trip.

The rumor, as printed, has it that a change, the story goes, this half-owner of the owners of the Yankees, dissatisfied with the way in which the Mite Manager has been handling the team on its home stand, is to consult with certain veterans of the club as to their opinion whether or not the team could win the pennant under other leadership. In case the players favor will attempt to force his partner into turning the club over into other hands, the Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, could not be located up to a late hour last night.

Colonel T. H. Huston, vice-president and secretary, refused to make any comment whatever when apprised of the nature of the story by phone.

Huston Won't Talk

"I have nothing to say," said Colonel Huston. "I will neither deny nor affirm any of the statements or plans which have been advanced through the channels of publication I know absolutely nothing."

Rumor has been rife about town in almost every channel, and to local residents conditions that all have not been well in the family circles of the Yankees for more than a year. The players have been bitter against Huggins ever since the last Western trip of 1920. They charge him directly as the cause of their losing the pennant. The owners have never denied that there was a quarrel, in which certain players were advised to leave the team in the 1920 pennant if Huggins were left behind.

Yankees May Benefit

There is no suspicion that the Yankees players are "lying down" on Huggins. The world's series stakes have been a success, 12 consecutive victories to cut off their noses to spite their faces. But it is also well known from friends of many of the players that the club as a whole disagrees with Huggins' tactics and methods; that he is cold and lacking in personality and that he refuses to take any advice.

Whether it will be Huggins' qualifications for leadership, the fact is very evident to the fans who have been panning him of late that the club really lacks that team morale so necessary to success. If conditions are to be brought to an issue it strikes the writer that now is the time. Another week is likely to be too late.

Frank Anderson, of New York, defeated the champion, defeated Danforth, of Buffalo, and Charles Carran, of Cleveland, eliminated Jarvis, of Toronto.

Rare Courage of Mrs. Jessup Decides Struggle at Seabright

Voshell Among Losers as New Jersey Tournament Approaches Semi-Final

By Fred Hawthorne

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 9.—The annual invitation tournament in men's and women's singles was brought into the round before the semi-finals this afternoon on the splendid turf courts of Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. The same advantage was made in the doubles in both events.

In this day of many matches and spirited play, there were only two or three results that could be regarded as upsets. S. Howard Voshell was defeated by Dean Mathey, of New York, at 3-6, 6-3, 6-0. Miss Margaret Grove van Rensselaer, Miss Helen Gilletteau, by a score of 6-3, 1-6, 7-5 and Miss Martha Bayard conquered Miss Edith Sigourney, of Boston, by a margin that was narrow, but no less effective, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6.

Mrs. Marion Ziegler Jessup conquered Mrs. May Sutton Bundy at 6-2, 7-5, playing with rare courage when she was in imminent danger of losing the second set as she trailed at 3-5 and 6-40 in the score. Had Mrs. Bundy succeeded in squaring the match at this stage she stood an excellent chance of winning. For Mrs. Jessup was tiring and might not have been able to withstand another hard set.

Mrs. Mollie Burdett Mallory, the national champion, engaged in a stirring deep running duel with Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole, of the Longwood Cricket Club of Boston, winning by a score of 6-2, 6-4. This was a battle fought on open courts and hard hitting, with both players reaching off splendid forehand drives.

Miss Browne Wins Easily

Miss Mary K. Browne, of California, kept the Pacific Coast brand of tennis to the fore by overwhelming the steady playing Mrs. Robert Lacey at 6-0, 6-0. Miss Browne appears to have entirely recovered from her slump of two weeks ago. All her shots were coming off beautifully, and she was particularly smooth and accurate in her returns by aggressive overhead and volleying attacks.

Miss Eleanor Goss took her match from Mrs. Philip Walsh, of Philadelphia, handily, the sets going at 6-0, 6-4, and once again the West Side Tennis Club girl demonstrated that she is up to her best form. Her ground strokes were powerful and her service was aces, and her service is quite the most severe of the courts among the fairer sex. Tomorrow Miss Goss will face little Miss Helen Willis, of California, the fifteen-year-old prodigy.

The California schoolgirl triumphed over Miss Grace Baker, of East Orange, by a score of 6-2, 6-4 today, and a goodly portion of the gallery watched over from the grandstand to watch these two juniors in action. Miss Willis, as she becomes accustomed to the grass courts, is showing signs of becoming a head player in this country in speed and pace, and her service is quite the most severe of the courts among the fairer sex. Tomorrow Miss Goss will face little Miss Helen Willis, of California, the fifteen-year-old prodigy.

Another for Miss Bancroft

Miss Leslie Bancroft, of the Longwood Cricket Club, continued her progress toward the final round by decisively defeating Mrs. Edward V. Lynch, of New York, at 6-1, 6-2. Her ground strokes, low and well controlled, had so much speed that Mrs. Lynch was often caught shy of position, and Miss Bancroft also acquitted herself well when she had the opportunities to finish matters at the net.

Miss Leslie played the best tennis of her career in the first set against Miss Gilletteau, racing in from her base line to cut off returns from inside the service court lines, and the angles she worked off toward the net. Miss Gilletteau in difficulties continued.

In the second set the drives that Miss Gilletteau had not been able to place sufficiently deep in the opposite court got going better and she won easily enough. In the third set there was a prolonged session of back court play with Crocus coming through finely in the last two games. Voshell showed very uneven tennis in his match against Mathey. In the second set he was going fast, moving up middle court and winning by cutting off Mathey's returns. In the last set, however, the left-hander seemed to lose control of his strokes completely and could not keep the ball in court, whereas Mathey was bringing off his volleys with great success and coming in behind his forehand shots with good judgment. Voshell could not get a game in this set.

Young Phil Neer, of California, gave his famous fellow Californian, William R. Johnson, former national champion, a rousing time in the first set of this match. The games went to twice twice. Little Phil could win at 8-6. In the second set Johnson got down and serious work and hammered out his shots with aching speed and precision so that young Neer could only take one game.

Richard Norris Williams, of Boston, finalist at Newport last week, made his first appearance to-day and won two matches in the singles, first eliminating Leon de Turenne, of Harvard, at 6-3, 6-0, and then taking the measure of J. C. Gilbert, the British Isles cup player, by a score of 6-1, 6-1. In this match Williams looked very good, bringing off shots from every nook and corner, completely dominating the situation, so that Gilbert's steadiness was of little use.

Vincent Richards did not look particularly impressive against O. G. N. Turnbull, the American champion, whom he defeated at 6-2, 6-3. Turnbull, the junior champion, was missing many easy shots, and Turnbull's determination and steadiness were not easily overcome.

Maxwell Woodman and F. Gordon Lowe, the other British representatives, maintained the places to-day, defeating E. W. Whitcomb 6-1, 6-4, and W. Woodman defeated A. H. Chapin Jr. at 6-3, 6-3.

Swinging into the homestretch with a comfortable lead, Crocus came down with a strong wind still and apparently assured that he had everything behind him. At the eighth pole he looked over his right shoulder, and, seeing nothing, he started to ease up. In the ninth pole, however, he was back in the lead, and he won by a nose.
